Down on the farm

If you go out to the country, what do you see? That's right fields and farms. Oh, and trees and hedges and birds.....It's a long list! Farms can grow things such as fruit, vegetables, wheat and barley and rear animals like sheep, pigs and cattle.

Farms are wonderful places to visit. You may have been to a farm on a school visit or on a trip with your parents. Some of you may even live on a farm. It is important to remember that farms are work places and so they might be dangerous and you need to take care.

STAY SAFE AND PLAY SAFE

Here are the Farmyard Four. They are going to help you find your way safely round a farm.

This is Fergus, this is Frankie, this is Fred and this is Fay. Fred and Fay live on a farm. Fergus and Frankie are their friends, who often come to play. Fred and Fay have been explaining to Frankie and Fergus about the dangers you find on farms.

There are lots of different animals on farms; they may look tame but stay away from them. They can bite, stamp on you and may give you diseases.

You might see dogs on the farm. Some may be sheep dogs, some may be guard dogs. They may look friendly but they might not like strangers so keep away.

Farms have a lot of machinery on them. All the machines make the farmer's life a bit easier. You can help the farmer by not touching any machinery or going near any vehicles like tractors.

As you read this magazine you will discover other dangers. You will find out more about farms and how to stay safe when you visit them. So, remember, never go to a farm without an adult and always stay with that adult.

There are lots of games, puzzles and quizzes for you to try.

You will notice that we do not have page numbers in this booklet. Instead we have a short sum for you to try. Can you work the answer out in your head? The correct answer is the page number!

Fred and Fay want to tell you something

In a farmyard, you will see lots of different vehicles and machines. These help the farmer move things around the farm, and carry out hard work like harvesting and ploughing.

These machines are very useful – but they can also be dangerous. Here are some tips for you to remember.

Stay away from vehicles and machines even if they are switched off. All the bits and pieces on a machine might look interesting but if you get caught on them, you could get hurt.

Don't ever ride on a trailer or a tractor – you could fall off and get a bit too close to those big wheels.

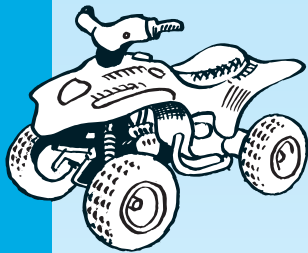

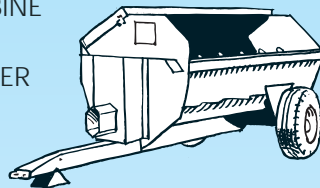

Watch out for things like stones flying from the wheels and other moving parts of machinery.

Spot the sign

As you walk around the farm, you'll see signs on the walls. Some of these are warning signs that tell you there is a risk of danger. For example, near a hay store, there may be a fire risk sign. Others will tell you what you must do to protect yourself; you might see a sign that tells you to wash your hands after touching animals.

Match up each sign with its meaning and one place where each sign might be needed. The first one has been done for you.

	sign meaning	place where the sign needs to be a general warning – risk of danger	i chemical store
	b caution – risk of electric shock	ii hay barn
	c caution risk of fire	iii by water tap used for hosing down vehicles etc.
	d caution – toxic hazard	iv beneath overhead power lines
	e head protection must be worn	v near a barn that is being built
	f eye protection must be worn	vi in a workshop
	g not suitable for drinking	vii by slurry pit

Where would you put the signs in the picture below? Now colour it in.

The Farmyard Four stay safe

Read this cartoon and see if you can answer the questions.

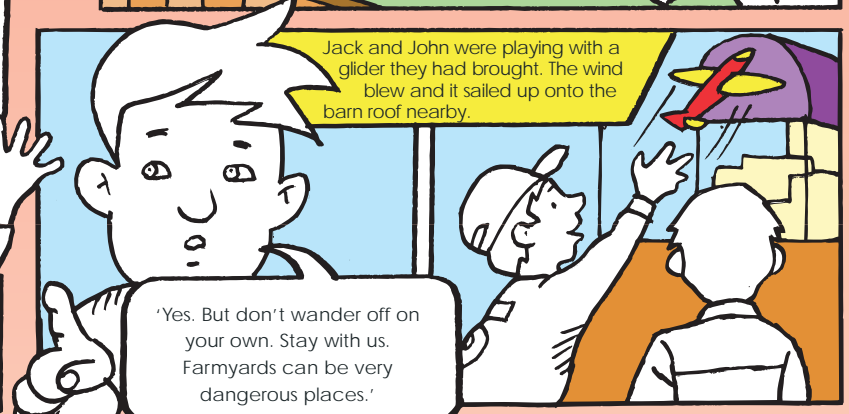

It was a hot sunny afternoon down on Staysafe Farm. Fred, Fay, Frankie and Fergus were playing football together in the farm garden, when three younger children came to visit them.

'Hello, I'm Jack, this is Jo and that's John,' the boy said. 'Can we have a look around the farmyard?'

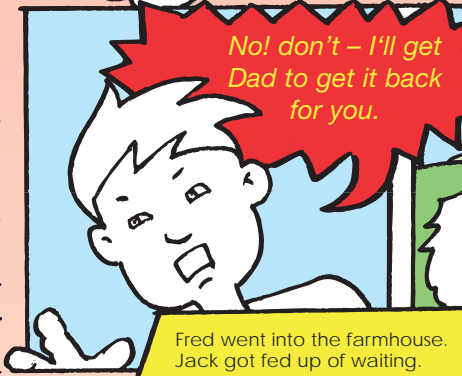

Jack and John were playing with a glider they had brought. The wind blew and it sailed up onto the barn roof nearby.

'Yes. But don't wander off on your own. Stay with us. Farmyards can be very dangerous places.'

Don't worry I'll climb that ladder and get it.

No! don't - I'll get Dad to get it back for you.

Fred went into the farmhouse. Jack got fed up of waiting.

He sees a ladder against the side of the barn.

I'm off to get it myself.

Great I love climbing ladders!

Fred looks for Jack.

Stop Jack! Get off the ladder.

Why shouldn't Jack climb the ladder?

Jo has wandered off too and has spotted some lambs in pens.

Oh I love lambs! They're so cute and cuddly, here lambee, lambee!

She reaches down to touch one of them.

I wonder if I can pick one up?

Jo don't do that!

Why shouldn't Jo try to touch the lambs?

STAY SAFE AND PLAY SAFE

The Farmyard Four offer this advice to you.

- Don't go into an animal pen without a grown-up. If animals are nervous or afraid, they could attack you. If you are allowed to touch an animal, wash your hands afterwards. Some of them carry infectious diseases.
- Don't wander round a farm on your own – stay with an adult.
- Stay well away from machines and vehicles, even if they are not moving. The driver might not be able to see you, or you could get caught up in the moving parts.
- There are lots of dangerous liquids on farms. Farmers use:
 - chemicals to clean equipment
 - sprays to keep pests off crops
 - medicines for animals.
- Don't play in stacks of hay or straw because they could collapse on top of you.
- Don't go inside grain bins or stand on grain in pits because you could be sucked down into it.
- Close the farm gates behind you. If you take a dog with you to a farm, keep it on a lead all the time so that it doesn't get lost or frighten the farm animals.
- Keep away from slurry pits, sheep dips and any ditches or drains where you could fall in and drown.
- Take great care when cycling through farmyards, there are many dangers.
- Don't ever play with matches or light fires on farms.
- Never eat or drink anything without washing your hands first.

These can make you very ill if you swallow them and some can catch fire very easily. Don't play with bottles or drums.

Animals

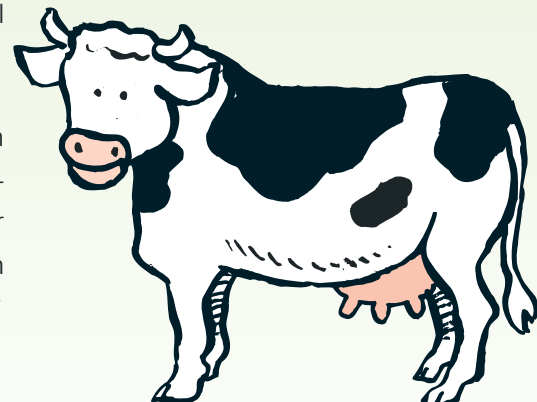

Here is Fay of the Farmyard Four:

'One of the best things about being on a farm is looking at the animals, especially the young ones like lambs and calves. Don't get too close, though. Their mothers will want to protect them and if you try to touch a lamb or a calf, you could have a very angry ewe or cow coming to warn you off!

We have horses on our farm and they are quite big animals, so stay away. Watch out for dogs on farms, too. They are working animals, not pets, and they can be quite fierce. We have a guard dog and many other farms do. So do not go near him because he will growl and bark at you!

Animals can also carry diseases that human beings can catch. If you do touch an animal – even if it is just the farm dog or cat, wash your hands afterwards. Don't ever touch anything on the farm and then put your fingers in your mouth!
